

STEPPING ON A CRACK

“When you step on a crack, you will have bad luck”

Origins

- This superstition originated back in the late 19th century , unfortunately when there was racism . People used to say:”Step on the crack and your mum will turn black”.
- In the mid 20th century , children used to be told that if they stepped on the cracks of pavements , they would be eaten by bears which would be waiting for them at the corner.
- Some other people believed that the number of cracks that you stepped on , showed the number of bones or dishes your mother would break.
- It is also believed that the cracks on the ground or the pavement are connected to the underworld and if you step on them , there is a danger of falling down there.
