

I'd like to grow up because if I stayed a child forever, I would have to watch those that I love die! Maybe being a child is easier, but really... not being able to remember anything from your actual childhood? When you had your parents? I wouldn't be able to do that!

Another reason is that if I grow up, then I will have a family. I will have children that will call me mum, then just like me they'll have children and they will call me grandma. That's one of life's beauty and I don't want to miss that!!!
