

The THIMUN 2018 conference was truly an inspirational and life changing experience. I was given the opportunity to be the voice of Barbados in the Special Political and Decolonization Committee and discussed matters of major importance on a global scale, in order to construct effective and innovative solutions through fruitful and passionate debate. Since it was my first THIMUN and my second MUN conference, I was nervous to speak in front of a large audience. Hence, I found this experience a big challenge through which I learned how to prepare, support, oppose to and improve a subject. However, besides the academic aspect of such a conference, it was also a really fun experience through which I met people from all over the world, learned about different cultures, religions, customs, languages and most importantly made long-lasting friendships with like-minded people.

Overall, this experience left me feeling inspired, fulfilled, confident and glad to be a part of something so much bigger.
